Christmas Review next week. Send an extra copy to your friend.

Thermometer down to 20 below at Chama. Yesterday it was 40 above at Cerrillos.

The famine in Mexico is represented as something terrible, not half of the worst of which has been told.

Pay-day time has been a little more quiet this week than usual. The boys seem to be saving themselves up for the holiday season.

The sand storm at Albuquerque last week was the worst ever known in that city. The bell tower was blown down and several buildings damaged.

An invitation to attend the laying of the corner stone of the Albuquerque Democrat's new home, on the 26th inst., has been received and will surely be accepted.

The snow blockade of trains on the Santa Fe and D. & R. G. in Colorado and Eastern New Mexico, prevented a great number of delegates from attending the silver convention at El Paso. The trains were delayed for three days.

The President's message is given in full in this week's REVIEW, also the report of the Secretary of the Treasury, Navy, and Postmaster General. It is a good documentary paper; worth keeping on file.

Hon. Stephen B. Elkins, one of the owners of the Cerrillos town site, has been appointed secretary of war. We mention the fact of his being a Cerrillos real estate owner as the key to a recent identity and the probable distinguishing mark which prompted his appointment by the president.

An eastern newspaper has adopted the plan of writing obituary notices of delinquent subscribers, assuming that they must be dead, and it is said that the plan works all right, but this is a matter which may be doubted. The man who will owe a newspaper a subscription as some of the honest farmers and regulation citizens do on the East, is generally willing to be considered dead. While talking on this subject the REVIEW editor can say with pride that during fifteen years of newspaper publishing in the states, he never had as good a paying list of subscribers as his paper has possessed at Cerrillos.

Says the Las Vegas Free Press: "An editor of a newspaper in one of our neighboring towns is obliged to be absent from his town until matters are fixed up so he can return. He didn't rob a bank either, but this is what happened: In writing up a visit to the house of a lady friend, he described her collection of plants. He wrote it this way: 'Mrs. H. has the largest and nicest plants in town.' In making up the forms the 'I' dropped out of the word plants, and the mistake was not discovered until the papers were printed. The whole town was in a uproar, and when the lady's husband read the item he armed himself with a revolver and started for the office, but the old printer saw him coming and jumped from a second story window and escaped."

The Secret of Fine Pastry.

Is wholly in using Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder. The only pure Cream Tarter Powder sold on the market. Other brands contain either ammonia, alum or some other adulterant. Ammonia or alum powders dry out, make the dough too porous, leaving a bitter taste, etc.

No agency has assisted so much toward perfection in cookery as Price's Cream Baking Powder. Its ingredients are simple and so blended as to exist in exact chemical proportions, so after use there is never any excess of either left in the food. Hence there can be no impurities whatever left in the finished food. No bitter taste, no taint of ammonia, but food raised with Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder partakes of the natural sweet flavor of the flour and keeps moist and fresh for days. This powder possesses qualities peculiar to it alone. No other makes such delicious pastry. No other contains the white of eggs.

IS IT ON THE LIST?

Ammonia and Alum in Baking Powders. How to detect them.

In view of what the Minnesota Senate has done, it is hoped that legislative bodies in other states will soon take up the subject of food adulteration. The subjoined list of baking powders containing ammonia and alum, compiled from official reports and published in a recent number of the Scientific American, is given below. "It deals in a direct manner with an evil which must be cut down," said the Chicago Tribune in commenting on the Scientific American report. Following is the list of Ammonia and alum are the most common adulterants used in the manufacture of baking powders. The Government report shows that a large percentage of the baking powders on the market contain either one or the other, or both these pernicious drugs.

What woman would use an ammonia or alum baking powder if she knew it? Such powders not only undermine the health, but ammonia gives to the complexion a sallow or blotched appearance. The presence of ammonia or alum in a baking powder, however, can easily be detected.

To DETECT AMMONIA.—Mix one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder with one teaspoonful of water in a tin cup; boil thoroughly for a few moments, stir to prevent burning, and if ammonia is present you can smell it in the rising steam. Or, place a can of the suspected powder top down on a hot stove for a minute or two, then take off the cover and smell.

To DETECT ALUM.—Alum powder can be tested by putting a couple of teaspoonfuls of the powder in a glass of cold water. If no effervescence, that is bubbling or simmering, takes place, condemn the powder and return it at once.

Some alum powders, however, like the "Calumet," "Bon Bon," "Chicago Yeast," etc., contain phosphates in combination with alum, and with these brands the following test is simple and sure:

Take one half teaspoonful of baking powder in lid of may half pound can; char thoroughly over a strong alcohol flame, a good gas jet; or red hot coals. After charring (that is, burning until the whole mass is black) add a teaspoonful of water and place a bright piece of silver coin in the solution. Stir for one minute, then take out the silver. If the powder prove a cream of tartar powder the coin will be bright; if an alum powder it will have sulphur stains.

Now pour a little vinegar into the lid and smell the fumes. Alum powders give off sulphuretted hydrogen, which may be detected by its foul odor.

There are pure cream tartar baking powders on the market. All authorities report Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder as free from Alum, Ammonia, Lime or any other adulterant. The purity of this brand has never been questioned.
